

DAILY, EXCEPT SUNDAY.

ROSSER & MCCARTHY,
Proprietors.

TUESDAY EVENING, AUG., 31, 1886.

It makes one's feet weary to read the gush about that "dead corpse," the Columbus and Mayville Railroad—Republican Enterprise.

We suggest that our neighbor use his eyes a little more, and give his feet a rest, provided they really can't stand the "gush."

The Department of Agriculture at Washington reports serious damage to the tobacco crop in Maryland from excessive rains. A reduction of one-third in the yield is indicated by the reports. In Tennessee the crop is in better condition.

A DISPATCH from Ashland says the Democracy of that section will put up Hon. W. C. Ireland as a candidate for Attorney General. Judge Ireland is a faithful Democrat, and has the reputation of possessing all the qualifications to make an able official.

AFTER the Lebanon convention, the Republicans brought out Mr. Yerkes to do up Mr. Barbour, the Democrat nominee for Superior Court Judge in the Second District. Cleveland's majority in the district two years ago was 9,000, but Barbour beat Yerkes by 19,002 votes. The Republicans will hardly ever attempt to do up a Democrat in that district again.

The largest solid body of coal lands in the United States is said to be in East Tennessee, between the Knoxville and Ohio and the Cincinnati Southern Railroads. The lands which are also heavily timbered, have been purchased lately by New York capitalists, and will be developed. The coal lands of Eastern Kentucky are as rich in ore, and will repay investors.

In 1884, General Wadsworth, the best and most popular Republican in the district, was elected to Congress in the Ninth Kentucky by the slender majority of 102, over an almost unknown Democrat. The General has declined to run again, and if the Democrats can't find a man that can beat any other son-of-a-gun of a Republican, they deserve always to be represented by one.—Interior Journal.

THE campaign in Maine opened Tuesday. Mr. Blaine "touched the button," that will send a shock through the Democratic body politic from one end of the land to the other.—Republican Enterprise.

If any of the Democrats in this section have been shocked by the "button" Blaine "touched" in Maine the other day the fact remains hidden from the historian. The "Democratic body politic" seems to have survived the shock pretty well, too.

INSTEAD of "forcing himself upon his party in 1884," Mr. Wadsworth was induced to permit the use of his name by the convention only after the most persistent appeals from his friends, many of them Democrats who were heart-sick at the thought of having such a representative as Frank Powers at Washington.—Republican Enterprise.

Will the Republican Enterprise please tell us of something Mr. Wadsworth has done at Washington which Frank Powers or any other honest, sensible fellow couldn't just as well have accomplished? Frank Powers is an honest, sober, and industrious fellow—a man of intelligence and had he been sent to Congress two years ago, the interests of the district would have been as well cared for as they have been by Mr. Wadsworth.

CONGRESSMAN BEN BUTTERWORTH, of Cincinnati, pays a glowing tribute to Speaker Carlisle. In a recent conversation, Butterworth said of the distinguished Kentuckian: "He is as good a man as there is in the House," said Ben, "and the Democracy can boast of no better or more faithful worker. As Speaker he is fair and personified. He is absolutely impartial. I always feel perfectly certain that he will do us justice, and even in the most critical and trying times when a Speaker would almost have a right to lean one way or the other, he is calm and judicial. I can not speak in words of too high praise regarding his conduct as a member of Congress and as Speaker."

"Our Democratic friends seem to be terribly torn up because the Republicans have not settled on their candidate for Congress. There is plenty of time and plenty of voters. We have a winner either Geo. M. Thomas, Major Drew J. Burchett or W. W. Culbertson, with several other pretenses to hear from."

Republican Enterprise.

We rise to inform our neighbor that the Democrats are not half as much "torn up," over the above matter as the Republicans themselves are. The Enterprise admits Mr. Wadsworth is the most popular Republican in the district, and with him out of the contest, the Democrats will have an easy time of it. That pitiful little majority of 102, which the "most popular" Republican in the district polled against a weak and unknown Democrat, will melt as snow before a summer's sun.

GERONIMO'S BAND.

The Narrow Escape of a Mexican Courier in the Employ of the Military.

TOMBSTONE, Ariz., Aug. 31.—Juan Refugio, a Mexican courier, in the employ of the military, was in Tombstone. He is the man who brought the news to Fort Huachuca that Geronimo and his band were encamped near Frontiers. His information was obtained accidentally and came near costing him his life. He was carrying dispatches from Lawton, the Sierra Madre, to Fort Huachuca, and was riding leisurely along in the vicinity of Frontiers, feeling perfectly safe in the belief that the Apaches were far south. Suddenly a dozen or more savages arose as if from the earth. Geronimo, whom the courier knew by sight, was among the number. Juan supposed his doom sealed and was on the point of making a hopeless dash for liberty, when the chief spoke to him in Spanish and advanced with outstretched arms. The Apaches evidently mistook him for a friendly Mexican. The courier was surprised at the friendly treatment of the Apaches.

In his talk with Geronimo he mentioned that he was on his way with dispatches from Lawton. In an instant his friendly attitude changed. The old chief uttered a yell, and the bucks made a run for their intended victim, but the courier put spurs to his horse and with a bound cleared the savage circle. The Apaches fired a volley, inflicting a wound on the leg of the courier and mortally wounding his horse. The country was favorable for flight, and before another volley could be fired horses and rider were out of range. The Apaches were not mounted. The horse, although fatally shot, ran several miles and then fell dead. The courier went on foot to a ranch, where he obtained a horse and went to Huachuca, bringing his dispatches and the most important news of Geronimo's presence near Frontiers.

As a Co-Laborer with Man.

Two difficulties lie at the root of woman's success as a co-laborer with man. The first is her lack of training; the second her lack of persistence. As a rule, woman is not educated with a view to any special trade or profession. She drifts into it. Men expect their daughters to marry. The daughters expect it. But so long as women numerically exceed men, the problem of woman's support cannot be solved by marriage. Even when a woman's necessities compel her to become self-supporting, she does not look upon it as a permanent thing. When she marries she expects to be a housewife, a trade or a profession either as a life work. Therefore, her heart is often not in her work. She looks upon it only as a makeshift—a stepping-stone to something better. Of course there are honorable exceptions—whole-souled, hearty, enthusiastic women, who throw themselves into their work, whatever it may be, either from a genuine taste for that work or from conscientious motives. And such women make a success of their work—be it culinary, domestic, literary or artistic.

Many a woman falls through timidity. She is conscious of a strong leaning toward some vocation; it may be a trade, a profession, or a business. But she is held back by custom, propriety, the restraints of family, her station in life, what the world will say, etc. Custom has a powerful influence over woman. She is still in swaddling bands. We are not speaking of lawless endeavors, but of lawful chances, opening a little out of the beaten path. That one woman should run a sawmill in Florida, and another navigate a steamboat in Louisiana, seem anomalies; in the one instance a thriftless husband, in the other a defunct spouse were the instruments which set these two plucky females afloat. Many women are capable of carrying on their husbands' business, not only with the hand, but with the head. They have tact, thrift, judgment, probity in their favor.—Cor. Philadelphia Times.

Why the Baby Cries.

The young bachelor who volunteered an opinion as to the reason for a baby's smile, said that the baby smiles because it is pleased at the hands of the baby's nurse, are well known, but why the baby cries is a matter as which few men have any curiosity, provided it is not too late to have an engagement down town when the convent begins. The "Mother's Manual of Children's Diseases" explains the matter thus:

"Cries are the only language which a young baby has to express its distress, as smiles and laughter and merry antics tell without a word its glories. The baby must be ill, is all that it cries tell one person; another who has seen much of sick children, knows that the baby is ill, and will be able to judge whether its sufferings lie in the head or chest or stomach. The cries of a baby with the stomach ache are long and loud and passionate; it is a profusion of tears; now stops for a moment, and then begins again, drawing up its legs to its stomach; and, as the pain passes off, strokes them out again, and with many little sobs passes off into a quiet sleep. If it has inflammation of the chest it does not cry aloud, it sobs no tears, but every few minutes, especially after drawing a deeper breath than before, or after each cough, it gives a little cry, which it checks, apparently before it has half finished, and this either because it has no breath to waste in cries, or because the effort makes its breathing more painful. If disease is going on in the head, the child utters sharp, piercing shrieks, and then between while a low moan or wail, or perhaps no sound at all, but less quiet, apparently dozing, till pain wakes it up again."—Chicago News.

Disappearance of a Swordsman.

BORROW, Aug. 31.—Robert Rendrew, the swordsman who was defeated in a mounted sword conflict with Sergt. Walsh, at Oak Island, last Thursday, had not been seen since he retired from the contest after drawing a second charge with the loss of the top of his thumb. His trappings, armor and helmet, valued at $100, have been found at Oak Island Grove. Some friends think he is afraid to show himself after his defeat. Others think he has killed himself. He was an ex-soldier in the Scottish Greys.

Drowned by a Dog.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Frank Wood was rowing on Onondaga Lake with a friend and a large dog, when the dog by suddenly baffling its position upon the boat. While in the water the dog persisted in climbing upon Wood's shoulders, thus forcing the man's head under water. Exhausted by his vain struggles with the dog, Wood finally sank and was drowned in eight feet of water.

Three Men Instantly Killed.

WILMOR, Pa., Aug. 31.—William Ashe, aged twenty, George A. brother-in-law to Ashe, and father of five dependent children, and Joseph Horner, employee of the Pennsylvania railroad, were struck by an engine, hurled beneath the freight train and instantly killed. Their bodies were horribly mutilated.

Care For Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, due to a constipation of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the back, yet discovering nothing on examination. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, as flatulency, belching, or the stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration, produced on the rectum, and itching after getting warm, is a common attendant. Blind bleeding and itching piles may at once be relieved by the application of Dr. Ross's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, and also the humor, thus relieving the itching and burning, and affording a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Address Dr. Geo. T. Wood, Lexington, Ky., or Geo. T. Wood, Cincinnati, O.

Have you Tonsillitis in many cases of rheumatism with marked success; the most important one was that of a patient, age fifty-one, who has been a sufferer from that disease for forty years. In one of his severe attacks I prescribed Tongaline, and upon the fifth day he was able to be out, and also to attend to his business. Have given Tongaline a fair and impartial trial, and think it the best remedy I have ever found for rheumatism. —B. F. Davis, M. D., Sturgeon, Mo.

Gardner.
The Gardner company are "copping at the St. George Hotel, and the Journal reporter enjoyed a pleasant conversation last evening with one of the members of the company. He related a very funny circumstance which occurred to the hotel and the Gardner company. A. Gardner, at a period of his time when the skies were not the brightest, and the sun was under a cloud.

Gardner had occasion to make a trip from St. Louis to New Orleans. The exchequer was very low, so much so, that he had only money enough to purchase two tickets on the boat. Besides himself, he had his wife, and a friend who was to accompany them. To his wife and friend he gave the tickets, consequently he was left out in the cold. The Captain was apparently agave, surly sort of a man, with a voice that could be heard a mile on a clear night. Soon his sonorous voice was heard calling "tickets!" He approached Gardner. The comedian sat quietly smoking, and did not look up. "Tickets!" roared the Captain with a hand on Gardner's shoulder. "Beg pardon, did you address me sir?" said the comedian, with an innocent air.

"Yes, I did; young man, I want your ticket." "I have none," said Gardner. "Well, cash will do," said the Captain. "But I have no money," answered Gardner. "Then you must get off at the first wood-pier," roared the Captain.

The boat landed, the gang-plank was put down and Gardner went ashore; also the Captain and the boat hands proceeded to land up wood. The moonlight was bathing the river in silver waves, the night was balmy and beautiful. At last, all were on board except the Captain and Gardner. The latter seated himself on a log of wood, and began to sing in a clear, sweet voice.

"We parted by the river side,
The moon looked down on you and me."
As the silver notes floated out on the evening air the Captain called out, "here, let that man get aboard."

Gardner needed no second invitation. He bounded up the plank like a fish, and as his foot touched the deck he called out, "I say, Captain, if you're not aboard in half an hour, sail without you!"—Evansville (Ind.) Journal.

Gardner will appear at the opera house next Friday night in "Karl, the Peddler." Admission, 25, 35 and 50 cents.

Wonderful Cures.
W. D. Hoyt & Co. Wholesale and Retail Druggists of Rome, Ga., says: "We have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery, Electric Bitters and Bucklen's Arnica Salve for two years. Have never handled remedies that sell as well, or give such universal satisfaction. There have been some wonderful cures effected by these medicines in this city. Several cases of pronounced Consumption have been entirely cured by use of a few bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery, taken in connection with Electric Bitters. We guarantee them always. Sold by J. C. Pecor & Co."

OUR NEIGHBORS.

DOVER.
Mrs. Ella McKee, of Deatur, O., is visiting her sister, Mrs. S. B. McKee, here.

Miss Mamie Moffett left last Monday to attend school at Midway, Ky.

Miss Nettie and Miss Mary, who were visiting Miss Mecca Alexander several days the past week.

Cordry & Ringo will pick 10,000 bushels of crab apples from the Reesop orchard this year.

Miss Corinna Anderson entertained quite a number of her friends right royal Saturday night on the 28th inst.

Mr. James Richardson and wife, of Mt. Sterling, are making a short visit to Mrs. Kate Richardson.

Miss Libbie Mitchell, of Ironton, O., and Miss Daisy Mitchell, of Anasie, are visiting their mother.

Four hundred barrels of cement were put off here by the Bonanza Saturday night for railroad purposes.

The Supply City has been moored at our wharf the past week, supplying our people with flour.

Miss Corinna Anderson will leave the first week in September to attend the Academy of Visitation at Mayville.

Miss Mamie Lynch arrived from Louisville Thursday night, and will teach in the public school at the beginning of the session.

George Caywood is distributing telegraph wires from the Louisville Railroad. He informs us that the wire will be in operation in six weeks.

The fete last Thursday night was a success. Ripper and Mayville well represented, and which is proverbial of them on such occasions.

Mrs. Mary Burgess, of Central Plains, Va., is on an extended visit to her father, Dr. F. Smith.

Her two interesting little daughters accompany her.

Louise Metcalf, while carrying a sack of flour, slipped and fell in front of G. S. Anderson's store last Friday and broke his leg above the knee. Dr. M. Smith rendered the necessary medical assistance.

The wife of C. W. Hines died at the home of her parents, Boone County, August 7, 1886. She was 45 years of age. Her husband, a native of this county, died of consumption. Many friends join in sympathy with Mr. Hines in the loss of his most estimable companion, and with the two little children who are thus deprived of the love of a kind and indulgent mother.

BLUE LICK SPRINGS.
We had another drawing room recital by Bees Oton and her gifted pupils, Miss Turney of the "Arlingville," Mrs. H. H. Hines of New Orleans, Friday night. Miss Oton's recital was a grand success.

"Aunt Bessie" and her Opinion of Betsy Baker. Little Mitchell.

Miss Turney gave "Archie Dean," and "Mona's Waters."

Miss Hines gave "Papa's Letter," and "The Snack in School."

In the audience were Senator Blackburn and wife, J. S. Smith (Palm), Judge Turner, Col. Morgan, Dr. Buckner, Mrs. Burroughs and many others.

[Communicated.]
The Institute.

We were unable to receive a copy of the resolutions passed at the institute last week, and of some other proceedings which occurred while we were out of the room on committee work, the resolutions reported in Saturday's issue were from memory. We have unintentionally omitted a resolution tendered to Superintendent Galbraith the thanks of the teachers for his kind efforts in behalf of the common schools of Mason County; for his uniform courtesy to the teachers, and for the able and gentlemanly manner in which he had presided over the institute.

We were not the secretary or representative of the institute, but made our reports as correspondents of the BULLETIN, and we wish to say to the teachers of Mason County, that though the prospects are not encouraging for this year, yet there is hope for the future. Superintendent Galbraith is casting bread upon the waters which must turn, even though it be after many days.

Every teacher should carry the reports and suggestions of the institute home to his or her own district, and be an active factor in advancing the cause of education in Mason County.
